Invitation

Future Prospects instead of Youth Unemployment

Congress to be held from 23 to 25 June 2014
in Saarbrücken

Under the auspices of José Manuel Barroso,
President of the European Commission

Solutions, concepts and tools for companies and the labour market

www.europatriates.eu

Our Mission

Five and a half million young people in Europe are currently unemployed but are nevertheless seeking to improve their prospects and secure their future. europatriates are not taking such a serious problem lying down but are, instead, organizing a solution for it. The concept is to reduce youth unemployment in the countries affected by transforming it temporarily into professional training and work placement in European host countries. At the same time, they are promoting the development of employment prospects in the country of origin. Our mission is to ensure that Europe does something for its youth; everybody who is willing and capable should have the opportunity to gain a career development perspective.

The congress to be held from 23 to 25 June 2014 in Saarbrücken europatriates are bringing under the same roof the best initiatives and solutions from all over Europe to fight youth unemployment. You can look forward to two and a half days of an engaging subject matter. This First European Congress will bring European delegations together with companies and HR professionals, stakeholders on the labour market and vocational training providers. Be inspired by the contributions and videos and exchange views on your own and newly encountered ideas – in a European dimension.

For your benefit:

Best practices, methods, tools

Prepare your organization for changes in European labour markets. Participants will gain a deeper insight into the experiences and new perspectives regarding work procurement for the unemployed all over Europe and discuss the concrete solutions and concepts proposed by the various states.

Examine new methods for HR departments and labour market tools of the future in greater depth by taking part in the workshops running parallel to the congress and by visiting exhibitors at the congress fair. It is an opportunity to become acquainted with best-practice methods and to try out new tools, such as integrative talent diagnostics or the employment radar for 131 services from seven job families. This will enable you to verify the results and decide there and then which strategies and procedures can be integrated into your activities.

The europatriates pilot programme

The unique characteristic of this congress is that europatriates are launching a pilot programme by which unemployed young people from all over Europe will gain a personal development perspective through access to two divisions: minipreneur coaching to set up a business at home or direct work placement with partner companies. This is preceded by an integration course for the language, country and people of the host country.
